THE DAILY JOURNAL

Is the best daily paper published on the line of the Central Pacific Railroad, east of Sacramento, and having a general circulation throughout the State it is especially valuable as an advertising medium.

THE DAILY AND WEEKLY JOURNAL have a combined circulation larger than that of any interior journal of Nevada, excepting those on the Comstock.

V. & T. R. R. TIME TABLE.

The arrivals and departure of the passenger trains to and from Reno and Virginia are as follows:

No 1, lightning express train, leaves Reno at 7.35 A. M. and reaches Virginia at 10:10 A. M.

No. 3, local passenger, leaves Reno at 7 45 A. M. and reaches Virginia at 1:30 P. M.

No 5, local passenger, leaves Reno at 1 30 P. M. and arrives in Virginia at 7:13 P. M.

No 2, lightning express train, leaves Virginia at 6 P. M. and arrives in Reno at 8 55 P. M.

No. 4, local passenger, leaves Virginia at 7:30 A. M. and reaches Reno at 12,15 P. M

No 6 local passenger, leaves Virginia at 2:30 P. M and arrives at Reno at 7.30 P. M.

These trains do not stop in Carson but a few minutes, being through trains.

A Disease that Wrecks the System

Every function is deranged, every nerve unstrung, every muscle and fiber weakened by fever and ague. It is, in fact, a disease which if unchecked, eventually wrecks the system. In all its types, in every phase, it is dangerous, destructive. Stupor, delirium, convulsions, often attend it, and cause swift dissolution. But when combatted with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters its foothold in the system is dislodged, and every vestige of it eradicated. That benign anti-febrile specific and preventive of the dreaded scourge is recognized not only within our own boundaries, but in tropic lands far beyond them, where intermittents are fearfully prevalent, to be a sure antidote for the malarial poison and a reliable means of overcoming disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, of which a vitiated torrid atmosphere and brackish miasmatainted water are extremely provocative. All emigrants and travelers should be supplied with it.

YANKEE DODGE'S notion store Virginia street, next door to Cunningham & Gibson, where can be found all those little articles so indispensible to every well regulated household. It would be useless to try to enumerate for there is no limit to the assortment. We intend to keep everything that there is a demand for. Trusting our old customers will call again, bring their friends, and for our part we promise to supply their wants at the lowest possible rates. YANKEE DODGE & Co. *

FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—The following facts are of great importance to the community, and they should be carefully read and acted upon by everybody in the county:

Fact 1. That L. Abrams, to accommodate the public, has "resumed" in the building opposite the Granger store.

Fact 2. That he sells better clothing for less money than anybody.

Fact 3. That he gives satisfaction in quality and fit.

For confirmation of the above facts ask any well-dressed man in Reno.*

FOR THE SUFFERERS—S. Jacob has a large and varied assortment of piece goods and tailors' trimmings, which he will make up at his usual low rates. Now is the chance for the sufferers to get good clothes at a bargain. He has put up a small building opposite Sunderland's boot and shoe store, on Virginia street, where he can be found. *

GRAND OPENING. — Coleman & Pechner are again in the field, opposite Jim Chambers', east side of Virginia street, where they will accommodate customers, as before the fire, with the best work in the tonsorial line. Satisfaction guaranteed.

DAILY NEVADA STATE JOURNAL

TUESDAY.....APRIL 22, 1879.

BECOMING NOTORIOUS.

For many years it was only the larger city dailies that were at all familiarly known by name to the people of the country. Possibly one or two of the leading literary weeklies were as well known as the New York Herald, Times, Tribune. Of late years the Danbury News, Detroit Free Press, and a few others have attained national celebrity. But none of these have been so suddenly brought into public notice, as the little paper in an obscure Mississippi place. We mean the Okolona States. The utterances of this sheet first began to attract attention last year, and from their political significance, were frequently referred to on the stump and commented upon by the newspapers. The States has done more in the past three months to gain notoriety than ever. Such remarks as "we've got 'em" "We'll have the Capitol in 1880," "Down with Lincoln's picture," "Up with those of Jeff Davis and Lee," and others of a kindred nature, have combined to give the States a name, which has become a household word. It is rebel to the core; denounces Lincoln, Grant, Sherman, and the other brave ones, as murderers, cutthroats, thieves, liars, branding them with the vilest epithets imaginable. Per contra, Bob Lee is held up as a saint, Jeff Davis is made a martyr of, and the Southern Confederacy and all its connections, is praised from beginning to end and the Democratic party is held up as a model of virtue and reform. The Republicans in Congress delight in reading extracts for the edification of their Democratic colleagues, the latter embracing every opportunity to repudiate the States as a representative paper of the party in the South. Blaine and Garfield and Frye tell them, in reply, that the States has the frankness to speak out boldly the sentiments the others cherish but only think. The States, if it continues its present course, will soon be sought after, if for nothing else, out of curiosity. And by reason of such motives, it will be certain to have an immense circulation. "Live" papers always do well in this country.

PLUCKY.

The Eureka Sentinel comes to hand with the announcment that it will not lose an issue because of the fire. Such little things as losing one's office, type, presses, paper, and all, do not seem to affect brothers Cassidy & Skillman, and they have utilized a hay or cheese press and a few handsful of babbit metal and the Sentinel comes out as if it had been taking a holiday. We wish our afflicted brother quills tons of good luck hereafter.

U. S. $10 CERTIFICATES.

The following is the form of the ten dollar certificate:

[On the face.]
United States Refunding Certificate.
Ten Dollars.
April 1, 1879.

This certifies that the sum of $10 has been deposited with the Treasurer of United States, under the act of February 26, 1879.

JAMES GILFILLAN,
Treasurer of the United States.
G. W. Scofield, Register of the Treasury.
Washington, D. C.

Convertible with accrued interest at four per cent. per annum, into four per cent. bonds of the United States, issued under the acts of July 14, 1879, and January 20, 1871, upon presentation at the office of the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C., in sums of $50, or multiples thereof.

[On the back.]

Interest on this note will accrue as follows:

For each nine days, or one-tenth of a quarter, 1 cent.

For each quarter year, 10 cents.

For each entire year, 40 cents.

An official circular says:

"Such certificates will be sold for lawful money at par and accruing interest to the date of purchase, by the Treasurer of the United States at Washington, and by the Assistant Treasurers at Baltimore, Boston, Chicago Cincinnati, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, and San Francisco; and the Treasurer of the United States at Washington, and the Assistant Treasurer at New York, will also receive in payment drafts in favor of themselves, respectively drawn on New York, which will be collected and the excess, if any, returned by check to the depositors."

A BALL was given in Virginia City last Friday night on the 1,040-foot level of the New York mine. This rather beats anything we ever heard of in the light fantastic line.

EUREKA should have no cause for complaint against any town in the State, in the matter of relief. When others have been unfortunate Eureka never failed them.

A man sold a horse, alleging the animal to be without fault. The horse turning out to be blind, and the vender being upbraided, he said he regarded blindness as a misfortune, not a fault.

CREAM OF THE TELEGRAPH!

The Pope has notified Spain that his reception of Don Carlos was without political significance.

Speaker Randall contemplates making a trip to California soon after the adjournment of Congress.

All law has been suspended in Russia and a military despotism inaugurated to put an end to Nihilism.

Relief committees have been organized in Virginia and San Francisco for the relief of the sufferers by the Eureka fire.

The steamer Great Republic struck on a bar at the mouth of the Columbia river. Ten lives were lost by the upsetting of a boat.

During the ruin of Saturday night a heavy shower of herrings fell near the Odd Fellows' cemetery, San Francisco. The fish were probably taken up by a water-spout.

On Saturday the end of the Southern Pacific track was seven miles from Maricopa Wells, and will probably reach there by Thursday. Two miles of track per day have been laid during the past five days.

A dispatch, dated Omaha, Neb., the 20th, says: Dr. St. Louis, the condemned wife poisoner who was to have been hung at Wahoo on Friday, but who cheated the gallows by shooting himself in the head in his cell at Fremont died this afternoon.

The indications multiply that last Monday had been fixed upon for a general emeute in St. Petersburg. The assassination of a General was attemped, and a petard was exploded in the street shortly after Solovieff's attempt on the life of the Czar.

A Nashville dispatch states that Attorney General Devens has directed that the plea of guilty be accepted in the case of the illicit distillers, numbering 700, who have been captured after resisting the officers. Sentence will be suspended, they paying costs.

Col. Hatch, commanding the Department of New Mexico, telegraphs that Victoria and his band of Warm Spring Apaches made their escape on the 15th and have gone to the San Mateo mountains. Lieut. Merritt of the Ninth Cavalry has ordered a company of cavalry to Ojo Caliente to operate with the company there in capturing these Indians before they begin to commit depredations.

Edison is quoted as saying in response to a question as to the progress he has made in his scheme for electric light: "Well, I am, as you might say, non-committal, but if there is anybody hereabout for whom you entertain particularly any spite, unload your gas stock upon him and be quick about it, too. Further than that I have nothing to say."

The Herald's Washington special says: It is rumored that De la Matyr has become a convert to sound money principles, and that the bill which he introduced directing the issue of $1,000,000,000 of greenbacks was neither more nor less than a sly stab at what he now sees to be the folly of his late brethren of the greenback persuasion. To come out with a sound money speech would have been a less effective way, in his opinion, it is said, of announced his change of opinions.

RELICS OF DONNER PARTY.—Jos. Marzen, Sr., Dr. R. J. Goss and Samuel Lowry visited the Donner Medows in company with one of the proprietors of the Republican, on Thursday last. Mr. Lowry pointed out the site of the three cabins of the Donner party. Upon removing the earth which formerly composed the floor of the Breen cabin, several relics were found. Pins with round welded heads, bullets shot, flints for gun-locks, the sole of a baby's shoe, a large, old-fashioned, bead, some wrought nails, and numerous pieces of ancient china-ware were among these relics. Mr. Marzen proposes tt plant Lombardy poplars around each of the spots where the cabins stood. All three of the cabins were situated on land belonging to Mr. Marzen.—[Republican.

JUST now there seems to be a difference of opinion among the society young men of New York as to what constitutes full dress. "Some," says a society organ, "contend that the white cravat, so long in vogue, should still be worn, while others hold that the black cravat should now occupy its place." Queer ideas some people have as to what constitutes a full dress. When we visit New York we shall not mix much among "society" young men unless they wear something more than a white or a black cravat for full dress. They must have at least a pair of striped socks on, in addition to the cravat. We would also suggest trousers, if they can afford 'em.—[Norristown Herald.

"DIS GLAME ISH MINE.—The following is a verbatim copy of a mining claim notice, posted not a thousand miles from Eureka: "Py got dis vas mine glame long dimes ago, unt py chorge it vas petter you dont gome arount Some more mit your tam nodises on dis glame. PARADISE ITEMS.

"H," a correspondent of the Winnemucca Silver State, communicates as follows of this new Humboldt camp:

Your correspondent laid over one day at Paradise to look at the village, see old friends, note improvements, etc. A considerable number of new buildings are in course of construction. I found all branches of business driving a tolerable lively trade; but was told that times were duller than for some time past. I had the pleasure of a hearty hand-shake with many an old Humboldter, among whom were C. C. Biles, Alex. Middleton, Chas. Kelmer, Judge Ivory, L. H. Morse, Fred Bauman, Sam Pierce, the Luther Brothers and many others, all of whom are doing well and have great faith in the future of the village.

Wednesday evening I went up to Spring City, and Thursday; under the guidance of Billy Burns and Uncle John Monroe, visited a number of the most prominent mines. Spring City has a population of over 1,000—mostly business men and miners. There are very few women. The houses are mostly frame. A great many new buildings are going up. Since the working force on the Paradise mine was reduced all are complaining of dull times and scarcity of money; but look to the near future for relief. The reasons for reducing the force are the accumulations of ore on the dumps and lack of milling facilities. This company have over 1,500 tons of good milling ore on its dump, not rich enough to ship without assorting, but good paying ore for a mill of its own. There are four tunnels—within a distance 1,000 feet—in on the ledge from 150 to 170 feet, in all of which the top, bottom and face is in good ore. In fact there seems to be no end to the ore now in sight, and a piece cannot be broken off anywhere that does not show more or less mineral.

I was informed that two mills, one of ten and the other of twenty-stamp capacity, would be erected in the canyon this Summer. If such proves to be correct, Spring City will be a "booming" camp indeed.

The Bullion is also an immense mine—12 to 15 feet wide. A force of 8 miners are working it, and taking out great quantites of very rich ore, which, for lack of milling facilities, must be piled on the dump.

The Big Prize and Rough & Ready are each working a small force of miners, and while piling up some good ore, developing excellent mines.

Work is suspended for the present on the Mount Rose and North Mammoth, pending the arrival of a new Superintendent, who is expected daily.

Though times are dull at present, the future is bright, and the Paradise mines will, ere the close of the year, add materially to the bullion product of the State.

STATE UNIVERSITY AND GROUNDS.

The Elko Post, of Saturday last, gives us this information of State University affairs:

In company with Mr. Mayhugh, one of the Board of Regents, we yesterday went over the grounds and building, noting the recent improvements, with the following result: The Board has decided to manage things right and thoroughly from the foundation up. The University grounds were first thoroughly manured. For this purpose the barn-yards of the town were literally scraped clean. Eight hundred loads of manure have been dumped and then plowed in, a foot deep. Next Fall, the process will be repeated to some extent. It is thought by next Spring, then, that the ground will be thoroughly prepared for vegetation. Altalfa, blue grass, clover, or perhaps all, will be thoroughly sowed. And the Regents expect to prove by the enormous growth of this crop that they know about farming all that Horace Greeley failed to learn. Nearly all the trees hitherto planted have died—only those flourishing which were immediately below the town supply water ditch. This Spring the Regents are experimenting by introducing native trees, the balm of Gilead, which are transplanted from Lamoille Valley. About eighty, only, will be planted now, but, if they prove to be a success, several hundred will be planted next year. They are placed in two semi-circular rows fronting the University building, and will when grown give it a very fine appearance. There is ample room for improvements of this sort, and the Board seems disposed to go to the extent of its means in beautifying the grounds, as well as making the school itself a genuine success. Also, there has been a wide grade cut up the embankmont to the front door.

In the dormitory some slight repairing will be done, which is all in this direction for the present. Although, if circumstances and prospects justify it, an addition will be made for the use of young ladies. In the University building a few broken panes have been replaced, and the walls will have to be plastered again in several small places. Back of the institution a high fence has been erected, dividing the ground into halves, for the purpose of separate recreation grounds. The old well has been filled up, and a new one may be dug. It is the intention of the Regents to convert the east wing room into a school library and labratory. The old apparatus will be put in working order, and some more obtained. It is hoped the library can be successfully started by public contributions, and it is hinted that in the future entertainments may be given for the benefit of this especial enterprise.

Mr. Dovey, the Principal, informs us that there are now forty names on his roll. An extra teacher will be hired, if necessary. Altogether, we think the Regents are showing laudable zeal in their conduct of University affairs.

Spurgeon says: "We ought to have room for enthusiasts, even if they violate every rule in grammar. A grand, blundering, hammering, thundering, whole-hearted Boanerges is worth a dozen prim reverend gentlemen, meek as milk and water and water and soft as boiled parsnips."

New School House.

The carpenters and painters have nearly completed their work on the Huffaker school house. We stepped into the cosy quarters and find that this new school edifice will be the best arranged and the most complete school building in this county. The main room, 27½ feet by 36 feet, is wainscotted and lathed and plastered. Maps, blackboards, etc., will beprovided—in a word everything to facilitate comfort and convenience in the school room. The building will be ready for occupancy by the first of next month. It will cost when completed $2,500 or $3,000.

The Last.

The paper in this issue is the last of the series of articles contributed by J. G. Lemmon to the Truckee Republican, on the Sierra Valley locust scourage. They have all been interesting, and this one is no exception

Fish Planting.

Fish Commissioner Parker will be down here to-day toplant 75,000 young salmon in the Truckee.

THE Baptist Society will give an ice cream social this evening at the residence of Capt. Frank Cook. All cordially invited to come and enjoy a social hour, eat a plate or two of nice ice cream, and help this society to rebuild their church.

SUNDAY was one of the most disagreeable days we have had for a long time. The clerk of the weather was very fitful, giving us all the samples of mean weather he had on hand. Yesterday was considerable better.

FOR the present, orders for Dr. Hutchins may be left at the office of Waldo & Julien, JOURNAL building. The doctor will be at his residence on Virginia St. corner of Fifth, until 9 A. M. and after 4 A. M.

THE non-arrival of the locks has prevented Postmaster Jamison from getting the boxes ready for business. When they arrive they will be quickly placed in position.

DR. MCKENZIE will lecture on temperance to-morrow evening in the Pavilion. He is expected to remain here a week. A general invitation is extended to the public to attend.

THE White House Clothing Store will be removed to its old quarters on Saturday. Go and see the display that will be made.

WEIL BROS. have received a nice lot of wrappers, to which they call the especial attention of the ladies.

THE Con. Virginia shipped $25,613 62 and the California $50,650 86 in bullion last Saturday night.

GREEDY GRASSHOPPERS.

The Fearful Locust Scourge in Sierra Valley—The Damage Inflicted Upon the Crops By the Ravenous Insects.

[J. G. Lemmon in the Truckee Republican.]

(No. 5.)

The dreadful locust ravages and their menaces in future are still the all-absorbing themes of thought and speech in Sierra Valley. Though former articles on the subject are somewhat lengthy, yet the half was not told.

I have just completed the entire circuit of the Valley, getting statements from nearly all the farmers on the North and West sides, portions of the Valley quite as severely devastated as those reported previously, but for want of time to visit them then, the damages generally were estimated.

Those estimates fall far short of the truth, as details clearly show. It will suffice now to give the aggregates of damages and the area of the several districts: Adam's Neck and vicinity $18-000, from 22 large farms containing 14-000 acres; Beckworth and vicinity, $15,000, 18 small farms of 9.000 acres; West side, $6,300, 15 small farms of 5,000 acres; interior (estimated), $6,000, 12 small farms of 4,000 acres, totals $45,800; 67 forms of 35,000 acres. Add Loyalton and vicinity and Sierraville, as formerly reported, $30,000, 24 farms, 15,000 acres; grand totals, $75,800; 91 farms of 47,000 acres, being $30,000 damages more than estimated.

The statements from sufferers elicited on this circuit in regard to the appearance and habits of the locust, conform generally to those of others given in the first article, though some observers detected two or more kinds of grasshoppers, and it is quite likely that the culprits comprise more than the one species I have determined as the Oedipoda atrox. But all statements and all the specimens seen, declare against the possibility that either of the three true migratory species are in our midst.

The satisfaction derived from this conclusion is that we of California are beyond the range of the all-devouring migratores that so often lay waste the interior. There they are liable to fall upon the farmers' field during any year of drought. Most of the border States have enacted expensive legislation to reduce the pest, by giving bounties of $1 to $50 per bushel for the locusts and $50 per gallon for eggs collected and destroyed, and also made it obligatory upon the able-bodied citizens to work a certain number of days to destroy them. Coal oil, Paris green, caustic potash, and several other chemical poisons are employed, and twenty-two kinds of machines, more or less elaborate and costly, are described and illustrated in the last report of the United States Entomological Commission, as being in use in the infested region. Extensive systems of irrigation are instituted, co-operative action arranged for burning the dry grass of the prairies at the right time to kill the unfledged locusts, &c. Fumigation, by burning dampened straw along the borders of growing crops is found to ward off invading swarms. The aid of the military and Indian Agents is invoked to assist in digging extensive trenches for trapping the young, and a signal corps of observation is suggested and shown to be of more prospective service than the present one devoted to "weather probabilities," involving as the locust problem does, an annual average loss of about $10,000,000.

Prof. Riley writes me: "Undoubtedly the same remedies that I have recommended [alluding to this report of the Locust Commission,] will apply to your species."

The inutility of most of these remedies lies in the fact that a portion of the eggs are deposited in patches out in the sage-covered interior of the valley, where they cannot be treated with machines or with plow and harrow, fire or water, all too late for this year. But many observers speak of the young as moving in narrow columns, mowing swaths of grass in their progress. In this stage they might be precipitated into trenches, or trampled or crushed by rolling. These methods would be feasible only where the young locusts are not very numerous. Large masses thus ditched, if left uncovered, would bring in a worse pestilence—horrid diseases.

The insects huddle under dry grass and weeds during cool nights, where they may often be destroyed by fire.

A thin film of coal-oil, which will readily spread, upon a ditch of still water, will kill the locusts instantly if if they try to swim across.

A shallow pan having a small quantity of coal-oil in it, if placed where the insects may fall into it, is very effective. The oil in these cases penetrates the breathing apparatus of the insects by way of the ten pairs of spiracles or breathing holes along the sides of the body.

The invasion of 17 years ago was only for one season. Why this one is prolonged for three years it would be interesting to know. It is hoped this is the last year of their ravages, if, indeed, they are allowed to complete their work, owing to the parasites, but will rise and flee away as soon as able.

The attacks of the "red louse" or "silky mite," have been alluded to in the previous articles. I have detected it in several localities, and should it become numerous, the atrocious locust is doomed, as appears from authentic accounts of its friendly services in the interior. Says a correspondent of the Minnesota Times, in 1874: "A discovery has been made of great interest. A small red, silky bug or mite, about half the size of a kernel of wheat, in found in great numbers creeping into the egg pocket and eating the contents." The editor of the Prairie Farmer states, August 21, 1869: "The course of the locusts was brought to a sudden halt by the operation of a parasite in the shape of a small red mite which attach themselves to the body under the wings, where they suck the carcass to a dry shell." Ex-Governor Miller, of Minnesoto, writes August 15, 1876: "There is a glad, joyous excitement here, owing to the fact that the farmers discover a red parasite or louse attacking the grasshopper eggs. By to-morrow night, I feel safe in saying, there will not be an egg left in all the region." John Walker of Iowa writes April 17, 1877: "A reliable man here informs me that his garden soil is red with the locust mite, and they are going for the eggs with a vengeance," &c., &c.

In speaking of the efficacy of parasites to a company of intelligent friends recently, they demurred to my unsupported statement that instinct warned the locusts away from a region infested with parasites, hence I beg a little space for the evidence.

In the report alluded to, Chap. VIII—Habits and Natural History of the Locust—Prof. Riley states: "Gov. Morris of Manitoba started late in July, 1876, from Winnipeg northwest to make a treaty with certain Indians, and during the first five or six days of August he encountered vast swarms of locusts. The wind was blowing strong from the west all the time—just the dicection to carry them straight over into Manitoba. The Governor watched their movements with the greatest anxiety, fearing that the Province would again be devastated as it had been the year before. Yet during all the time he was passing through the immense swarms, they bore doggedly to the south and southwest, either tacking against the wind or keeping to the ground when unable to do so. Nothing was more remarkable than the manner in which they had persisted in refusing to be carried into Manitoba. A few were blown over, but did not alight, and the Province seemed miraculously saved." Mr. Whitney (one of the sub-Commissioners) states that in settling in 1877, the locusts avoided those counties in Minnesota in which they had hatched most numerously and done most injury, but selected such as had not suffered for some years past." "We are induced to believe," remarks Pro. Riley, "that there is more than mere coincidence in all this." He then details the life history of the locust mite, and concludes: "Every careful observer knows how generally the locusts, wherever they abound unprecedentedly, are infested with and debilitated by these little red, silky mites. * * * We cease to wonder that the hated spretus quits such a country as soon as its wings become strong enough, or that flying [invading] swarms avoid such localities. We may wonder at the instinct that guides them, but no more than we must ever wonder at the many equally incomprehensible instincts which guide most animals in the preservation and perpetuation of their species." Let it be remembered that both the Eastern and our species of locust are annual. These invading swarms were young, and could have had no experience—must have been warned by instinct.

In 1861 Sierra Valley was but thinly settled, and the locust damages were not so important owing thereto, but statements from eye-witnesses convey the idea that in numbers the locusts far exceeded any experience of this invasion.

For a year or two they had been at work in the north end of the Valley, just as now, rapidly increasing and traveling southward—precisely as in this case—but when they came around Newman's Point the broad living tide was immense, absolutely several inches in depth.

Dave Newman states that when he became aware of the direction of their approach, about the 5th of May, he with Bill Peck and others, dug a trench 50 feet long, by three feet wide and three feet deep, across their course. The young locusts fell into it, smothered and died, while others traveled on over. He then shoveled out the dead ones and before night the trench was filled a second time, estimated at 50 bushels. He then desisted, for the stench of the dead he feared would be worse for his family than the loss of crops. They piled up against his barn like snow-drifts, to the height of several feet—estimated at 500 bushels.

Jonah T. Jones says they fell into and filled a row of post holes to the top and died, amounting to a great many bushels.

George Humphry was driving stage through the Valley at the time, and says the road was often blocked as if with mud holes by grasshoppers; that they lay in banks along the fences and buildings.

No one reports any parasites on them, but as they were known to climb up from the ground to roost nights, where possible, it is supposed that the fear of the red mite which travels the ground was the cause, as this is the way with the Rocky Mountain locusts when so menaced. The Autumn of that year saw the last of them. They did not fly away, it appears, but lay down and died in heaps before depositing eggs.

I have called attention to this locust enemy on every occasion, and much search has been instituted, but as yet only a few report the presence of the mite, and those in but a few places and in small numbers, it is to be feared that they are not numerous enough to destroy or drive out the locusts, but there is yet time for complete rescue. Their appearance at the East on our parallel, is reported as occuring from April 17th to August 21st.

Would that the welcome little red, silky locust-mite could be reported as reddening the ground of Sierra Valley in all the egg-infested localities.

Morphine Dose.

Yesterday one of Mr. Hogan's little girls was given a dose of medicine. She liked it so well that she watched her opportunity and took a generous swig. As it contained considerable morphine the little one soon began to become drowsy and was only prevented from falling to sleep by being vigorously walked. We hope she will recover. Great care should be taken to keep such medicines out of the little innocents' way.

Sentence Postponed.

The Court room was well filled with spectators yesterday morning, all of whom wanted to see the notorious Ah Chooey and hear the sentence of death pronounced upon him. He was brought into Court, but the Judge postponed the senience until to-morrow at 10 o'clock, whereupon the prisoner was taken back to his sell.
